Leader of Mexican Junta in
Los Angeles Held as Fugitive

STATE DEPARTMENTS HAVE TAKEN UP CASE

Three Revolutionary Leaders
Being Held in Secret Solitary
Confinement—Mexican Women Create a Scene.

By Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., August 26.—Ricardo Flores Magon, Antonio Villareal and Librado Rivera, the three Mexicans arrested here last week indicted charges of conspiracy against the Mexican government, were arraigned before Justice Frederickson today and two were held in the sum of $1,000 bail on a formal charge of resisting a police officer.

Villareal is charged with being a fugitive from justice and is held without bail. It is charged that he broke jail at El Paso while being held for extradition to Mexico.

Justice Frederickson held court during the noon hour today in order that charges might be filed against the men before the grand jury. The men were held in the sum of $1,000 bail on a formal charge of resisting a police officer.

The men are held in secret solitary confinement. They are allowed to see no one excepting their attorney. Visitors were denied admittance this morning. Four Mexican women became indignant at such treatment and created a scene at the station house.

Where Raid Was Made

The arrest of four prominent Mexicans of this city last evening on charges of conspiracy against the Diaz government of Mexico, may prove of no consequence, says a dispatch of last week. Enrique Creel, ambassador to the United States from Mexico, arrived at the Alexandria hotel this morning from Canada, where he has been studying emigration and immigration.

"I know of no charges against these men by the Mexican government," said Creel, "although they may be prosecuted by the United States for violation of the neutrality laws. I have nothing to do with the case."

Creel stated that he was on his way to the state of Chihuahua, where he was recently chosen governor. He stated that he would at once assume the duties of that office, and that the matter of his return to Washington rested entirely with President Diaz.

The men under arrest are members of a junta, an organization which advocates a revolution against the present government of Mexico. They are Ricardo Flores Magon, president of the junta; Librado Rivera, secretary; Modesto Diaz, editor of La Revolucion, and Antonio Villareal. The latter escaped from United States officials at El Paso while awaiting deportation to Mexico on a charge of inciting a revolution at Cananea. While the Mexican government may not care to press the charges of inciting a revolution against him, he is charged with committing a murder in the southern republic, and there can be no doubt that a strong effort will be made to get him into Mexico. He escaped from the United States government official at El Paso by running to the street and disappearing while the officer was in a telephone office.

Ricardo Flores Magon is the real leader of the Mexican revolutionist movement. It was letters written by Magon to some of his lieutenants in Douglas, Ariz., which were captured by the Arizona authorities and used in proceedings against a number of Mexican revolutionists who were operating from that territory. Several of the men whom these letters were written to were delivered over to the Mexican authorities and are now in jail at Hermosillo. The leader of the Arizona revolutionists was a man named Salcido.

BELIEVE DEATH NOT AN ACCIDENT

Painter Killed on Southern Pacific May Have Planned to Die That Way

(From Tuesday's Daily)

Did Francis George, who was the name according to Coroner Scott of the man who was run over yesterday morning and mutilated beyond recognition by a Southern Pacific freight train just a short distance east of the city, deliberately commit suicide? asks the Tucson Star.

Did he go to sleep while his motor car was traveling eastward and thereby invite certain death?

Was he murdered and his body then thrown on the track with the motor car left in front of an approaching freight train, making it impossible to stop immediately?

These are three questions with which the coroner's jury, which is to meet tomorrow in Justice Scott's court, will be confronted.

There is a bare possibility that evidence may be introduced to confirm the murder theory, but that is hardly probable, as it would be difficult to find any motive for murder except for the fact that George had money with him.

It is hardly believed that he committed suicide for, according to the railroad men who know him since his coming here several days ago, no motive could be assigned for such a rash act.

This would leave only the theory that he had fallen asleep and was in the path of the on-coming freight train which completely crushed the motor bicycle and which ground George into small bits; yet the theory is not absolute.

A card found in the pocket of George's coat, which was cut into several pieces, gave the clue to the name of the unfortunate man.

A short distance away lay the lever of the motor car and clutching the lever was the right hand of the dead man. A few yards away lay several fingers of the other hand and the remainder of the man's body was scattered for a distance of a hundred yards along the track. The mutilation of the body by the car wheels was the most frightful ever known here.

George was a member of a bridge painting gang and he had been in the city but for a short time. He was but slightly known to railroad men, but it was said that he was probably a resident of California. The bridge painting gang are travelers and their occupation is such that they are compelled to cover wide stretches of territory and are practically without any definite homes. The fact that the electric headlight of an on-coming freight train can be seen for a long distance makes it almost impossible to believe that the fatality could have been purely accidental.

The glare of the headlight is said to be so strong that it would awaken a sleeping person. In addition the sole obstruction to the free passage of the light at the point where the accident occurred were scattered clusters of cacti, the land in that section being almost level.

A short distance east of Vails and about midway between that point and Seneca siding, a Mexican who could not be identified was caught by a train and instantly killed, his head being severed from his body. Every possible effort was made yesterday to identify the body, but without success.

The bodies of both unfortunate men were brought to this city and a coroner's inquest will be held here.

CONTINUANCE IN JASPER HEARING

Preliminary of Woman Accused of Murder to Be Concluded
on September 11

(From Wednesday's Daily)

The preliminary hearing of Alena Jasper, charged with the murder of Bertha Lee, was held in Judge Thomas' court yesterday afternoon and a dozen witnesses were examined. Most of them were witnesses at the coroner's inquest and nothing new was developed, their evidence being substantially the same as at that time. Judge Witche appeared for the defendant and District Attorney Henry for the territory.

At the conclusion of the evidence the attorney for the defense made a motion for dismissal on the ground that the charge had not been proven and upon being denied, requested that the hearing be continued until such time when two witnesses wanted by the defense would be secured. This was granted and the hearing was continued until September 11 at 2 p. m.

There is an element of mystery connected with the two missing witnesses, who are said to be white men. Several witnesses in the hearing yesterday testified that when the defendant had been accused by the Lee woman of throwing the lamp at her, the Jasper woman denied the accusation and said that she could get two white men to prove that she did not throw the lamp, the blazing oil from which caused the death from burning of the other negroes. No one seems to know the identity of the two men, except possibly the defendant, who was not placed on the stand and who declined to make use of her statutory right to make a statement. If the woman's story is true, the two missing witnesses are probably the only ones who were actual witnesses of the scene which resulted in the terrible death of one of the principals. The attorney for the defense stated to the court that he understood the men were employed in some mining camp in the outskirts of the district.

Grief Kills an Elephant

Gladstone, one of the biggest elephants in captivity, valued by a circus which visited this city at $10,000, died here from grief. Late last year Gladstone's mate, Ruby, went insane, and had to be taken from the circus train to the woods near Greensburg, Ind., and shot to death.

Gladstone missed his wife and grieved so hard over her loss that he went to fasting. This began in September, 1906. The circus physicians constructed a powerful hypodermic, the size of a workman's hand bellows, and injected nourishment from time to time.

Then Gladstone began to refuse water, a main feature of an elephant's bill of fare. The circus train was stopped near here and a vain attempt was made to save the big elephant's life. The elephant when it died was a shadow of its former self—Bellefontaine, Ohio, dispatch to New York World.

A Maine Thirteen Story

Here is a thirteen story from Biddeford. On Tuesday, the 13th of the month, a son was born to Willie Nadeau and wife, who live at No. 13 Gooch street, weighing thirteen pounds and being the thirteenth child born to them, all of whom are living. Mr. and Mrs. Nadeau were married on the 13th day of the month, and the last child was born thirteen months after the last preceding birth in the family.

MUCH BETTER GAME THAN THE FORMER ONE

Eagles Make One Lonely Run
While the Elks Score Nine
Times—Stewart Pitched
Well, with Good Support.

(From Tuesday's Daily)

The much-heralded ball game between the Elks and Eagles Sunday afternoon proved to be one of the best games seen on local grounds this season. Both teams had been strengthened since the previous game, and while the Eagles played much better ball, they did not stand any more show of winning the game than they did the first one. Ed Stewart, the Elks' premier slab artist, held the birds down to a few scattered hits, while Job Atkins, who did the heavy work for the Eagles, was hit more freely and at times when his meant runs, Stewart's best work was done in the seventh when all of the bases were occupied and Manager Carroll's pets were unable to score a tally.

The Eagles made their lonely run in the fifth inning, when Johnson drew a base and scored while the outfield was chasing a liner from Steve Tillman's bat that collided with Freddy Green's finger. Freddy is wearing a rag around the digit to make the bluff good.

Bats a Thousand

The batting of Johnny Alexander was the feature of the game, the theatrical magnate making an average of 1,000, getting three hits and a base on balls in four times up. Pete Butz and Al Alexander, also of the Elks, distinguished themselves by making two-baggers, as did Atkins of the Eagles. Pete also upheld the reputation of his profession by stealing several bases and at one time would have stolen home if the catcher had not been looking at him.

John Seeland was expected to do the heavy hitting for the Eagles, but the husky ballplayer failed to connect with Stewart's side-winders and he struck out three times. Only four safeties were made off Stewart and Curtis Botts, who held down third for the birds, got two of these. The Elks made eight hits.

A Star Infielder

Bob Feland played a good game at short for the Elks. He went after everything that went in the air and generally got what he was after. None of the Elks outfielders, Rose, Eblevin or Murphy, who played left for the Eagles, nailed two flies. Billy Moon was fast at third whenever he had a chance, but chances were few around the third bag. Of the catchers Al Alexander played a better game than Johnson, and very few of the Eagles stole bases.

The following is the score by innings:

Elks ..... 0 2 0 1 1 4 0 1 * 9
Eagles ..... 0 0 0 0 1 0 0 0 0 1

The umpire was Postmaster Allison and his decisions were accepted without a murmur. The rooters would probably have taken a shot at him, even at that, but they were kept too busy roasting the players. The rooting was strenuous from start to finish, the fans being provided with horns and other din-making instruments. The loose change in the grand stand was collected by Attorney George Hill, Shorty Sawyer and Bill Feland, who gave in exchange gum, cigars and lemonade.

NINETY DAYS FOR ATTEMPT TO KISS

Expensive Sport at the Gibson
Camp—Charge of Assault
Is Not Pressed

(From Wednesday's Daily)

John L. Gilbert has been sentenced by Judge Thomas to spend ninety days in the county jail on a charge of exhibiting a deadly weapon. The original charge against Gilbert was attempting to assault a girl at Bellevue, the camp of the Gibson Copper company. It was shown at the trial that Gilbert had not made an assault, nor had he attempted to, his offense being merely a playful attempt to kiss the girl, whom he pursued about the dining room at the boarding house. The girl managed to get away from Gilbert and later Gilbert appeared at the girl's home waving a six-shooter. He was considerably under the influence of liquor and was arrested. He made his escape while on the way to Globe but was recaptured the next day by Sheriff Thompson.

ON WESTERN UNION PLAN

El Paso Telegraphers Adopt Sarcastic Resolutions

At today's meeting of the El Paso local, C. T. U. A., No. 68, the following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, That we will not deal with Robert C. Clowry in the settlement of the strike; that if the Western Union Telegraph company wishes to employ us, that they must come to us as individual stockholders of said Western Union company. We do not desire nor will we treat with any representative of this company.

It is further resolved that while we deeply sympathize with the widows and orphan stockholders in this suffering and hardships, but we consider that they should have considered these matters seriously, before causing this lock-out.

Members of the local union who are out on a strike continue to leave the city to secure positions elsewhere, and it is now declared that there are only about a dozen strikers out of the thirty-five who left the keys two weeks ago in the city at present. Some have gone to California, some to Mexico and others to points in Texas and New Mexico and it is stated that there are jobs for all who wish to leave the city and take railroad positions. "Should the strike be ended now, it would take five weeks to get all the old men in their positions and maybe some of them would never come back," said an officer of the union today.—El Paso Herald.

FUNERAL OF THE LATE LEE ABBOTT THIS AFTERNOON

(From Wednesday's Daily)

The funeral of the late Lee Abbott, who died several days ago, will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Catholic church. Mrs. Abbott arrived in the city Monday evening from Alameda, Cal., where she had been called to attend a sister, who had been stricken with paralysis. Mr. Abbott was a native of Hopkinsville, Ky., but came to Arizona in 1885, settling at Bisbee. He was married at Tombstone the following year. Outside of several years residence in Colorado, Mr. Abbott's remaining years were spent in Arizona. His death was a great shock to his wife, who had not been informed of his brief illness.

IS BADLY SCARED BY GILA MONSTER

Superintendent Mallard Receives a Present and Then
Forgets About It

(From Wednesday's Daily)

Superintendent C. C. Mallard had an experience with a Gila monster last evening that he will not forget in a hurry. While inspecting the damage done by the heavy rains yesterday the other side of San Carlos, one of the crew of the work train presented him with a live Gila monster which he had just captured. The superintendent placed the monster in an oil can in the rear of his railway automobile and then forgot about everything but the wash-outs on the Gila Valley road.

He left for Globe shortly before dark in his benzine locomotive, accompanied by Special Officer C. G. Miller. As they were speeding into the local yards the superintendent felt a tug at his belt and when he felt to see what it was, his hand came in contact with the reptile. Then the "super" went up in the air and if the auto hadn't been running on rails it would probably have climbed a telegraph pole. Finally Mr. Miller came to the rescue with a well-directed blow from his six-shooter and made the monster release his grip on the superintendent's belt. Except from the shock to his nerves, Mr. Mallard feels no ill effects, but he has decided to abstain from receiving further gifts of the reptile specie.

Ten Peaches the Climax

A fried chicken, peanuts, a watermelon, soda water, a new straw hat and patent leather shoes were the first purchases made by Eddie Atkins, colored, and ten years old, who stole $780 from the pocket of a coat William Eble, a blacksmith, had left carelessly in his shop.

Eddie had the time of his life until he ate ten big, luscious peaches he had bought at 15 cents apiece from a street fruit stand. They and the other delicacies made him sick and he was taken to the hospital. The police were still looking for the thief when they were notified that the stricken lad, thinking he was about to die, had confessed. He handed back about $700 of the stolen money.—Atlantic City dispatch to the New York World.

FOUR INCHES OF RAIN IN AUGUST

Heavy Rainfall in Globe During Present Month—One Inch
Falls Yesterday

According to Dr. Fox's rain gauge, the rainfall in Globe yesterday morning was one inch, which, however, was not the heaviest rain this month. The fall on the 19th was 1.7 inches and the total rainfall during the present month was 4.01 inches. Almost all of this has occurred since the 12th of the month and makes one of the heaviest monthly rainfalls in years.

No damage was reported because of yesterday's storm. Pinal creek was high in the morning and the cement block factory of Ross & Kimbrough was placed temporarily out of commission on account of the high water.

MEMBERSHIP IS ALMOST DOUBLED

One Week's Work Results in Fifty-eight New Members for Chamber of Commerce.

GIVEN ANOTHER WEEK TO COMPLETE CANVASS

Lack of Mail Service Comes Up
for Discussion and Committee Will Visit Postmaster—
Plans of Chamber.

(From Friday's Daily)

At the meeting of the board of governors of the Globe Chamber of Commerce held last evening at the court-house, the committee on membership, which was appointed to canvass the city for new members, reported that in the single week they have been at work the membership of the chamber has been almost doubled. Judge Thomas, who is chairman of the committee, reported that fifty-nine new members were secured with but little effort and asked on behalf of the committee that another week be granted the committee, so that the list could be increased to at least two hundred. The committee was given until a week from Monday to conclude and at that time the charter list will be closed and the regular standing committees appointed.

The First Grievance

The first public matter to come before the chamber is that of the present lack of mail facilities owing to the wash-outs on the Gila Valley road. The question is one that has been a source of considerable inconvenience to almost everyone in the city, as no mail has arrived here since Monday morning and none has left Globe since Sunday morning. The matter was fully discussed by the members last evening, but owing to the lack of knowledge concerning the postoffice regulations governing such contingencies, the only action taken was that of instructing the executive committee to call on Postmaster Allison and see if some way could be found to get the mails in and out of Globe during the present railroad tieup.

Members Gratified

The successful work of the membership committee of the chamber is a source of much gratification to those who have taken the lead in organizing the chamber, and it is hoped that the organization will be in smooth running order in a few weeks. But little work has been mapped out as yet, but it is generally agreed that an aggressive advertising campaign will be inaugurated early this fall, when Globe will be boosted all over the country as it has never been boosted before. Efforts will also be made to have Globe well represented at the territorial fair in Phoenix in November by the presence there of a large delegation of Globe boosters, as well as a splendid exhibit from this county.

Rings Dyspepsia Tablets do the work. Stomach trouble, dyspepsia, indigestion, bloating, etc., yield quickly. Two days treatment free. Ask your druggist for a free trial. Sold by Hanna's Drug Store.

SUES THE GLOBE LIGHT COMPANY

Robert Feland Wants Damages for Alleged Trespass on His Property by Company

(From Friday's Daily)

Robert Feland has begun suit in the district court against the Globe Electric Light & Gas company, through his attorney, N. M. Allred. The plaintiff asks for damages amounting to $1,000 for trespass by the corporation. It is alleged that the company placed a pole in the yard of the defendant and refused to take it down when ordered to do so by the plaintiff. When it was finally taken down a trench was dug under the fence, which the plaintiff alleges damaged the property.

T. F. McCollum, Clyde M. Bell, Albert Crockett and Clay Wilson have filed suit against the Globe-Arizona Telephone company and W. H. Tharpe for money said to be due them for work on the construction of the telephone line from Globe to the surrounding mining camps. Judge McCollum is attorney for the plaintiffs.

NAVY MARKSMANSHIP HIGH Records of Atlantic Fleet Regarded as Superior to Marks Which Earned King's Decoration

For several years past the navy department has not regarded it as good policy to acquaint foreign nations with the performances of the American naval gunners. It was felt that the publication of a good record made by our men would only serve to stimulate the gunners of other navies to better their own performances, which in turn would require additional effort on the part of the American gunners to maintain their superiority.

But the publication recently of a report that during target practice on the British Channel fleet, in the presence of King Edward, one gun made nineteen hits in twenty-one shots, thereby earning a decoration from the king, has naturally touched the pride of some American naval officers. They have looked into the records of the American gun pointers during the annual target practice just closed, and have found no reason to fear a comparison with the gunners of any other navy. The fact that the important elements of speed and caliber of gun are lacking in the report of the British performance makes it difficult to arrive at an exact comparison; but, from the number of shots fired, it is assumed that the British gun was not more than six inches in caliber and probably less.

Taking some of the six-inch guns in the Atlantic fleet, one gunner on the armored cruiser Maryland made eleven shots and eleven hits in one minute. A gun on the battleship Ohio was fired at the rate of 10.81 per minute. A six-inch gun on the battleship Maine has a record of a perfect score at the rate of 10.41 per minute, and the battleship Missouri's best record was 10.30 shots per minute, each lodged in a target.

As compared with small guns, these six-inch records become insignificant. A three-pounder on the battleship Virginia made twenty shots and twenty hits in seventy-five seconds and another gun made ten shots and ten hits in twenty-two and one-half seconds, a remarkable average of 26.67 shots and hits per minute.
